Dusty ballads and rural rockers, "The lyrics paint sobering pictures of shutdown factories on rundown streets, but the music never sags, capturing the spirit of hope and better times to come." (Performing Songwriter Magazine - Nashville, TN. 10 MP3 Songs ROCK: Americana, FOLK: Folk Pop Details: Raised between the homes of a Detroit School Teacher and an Upper Peninsula Outdoorsman, Joshua Davis is the product of both city and country. An early interest in songwriting, country blues and finger-style guitarists pave the way for his original material, which is a seamless union of new and old. After six years and three albums as the primary songwriter and vocalist of the Michigan quartet "Steppin'In It", Davis tracked his first solo record "Fool Rooster" in the winter of 2005. The album is a collection of original compositions, many with longtime collaborator and lyricist Aaron Allen. Recorded entirely live and in a few short days, the songs are placed in a modest setting with little attention to detail, leaving listeners convinced they were written about their own lives.
