One name: ROME. His lyrics present a mature and meaningful chronicle of missed opportunities, self discovery, and universal truths that have impacted him and those in his life. Rome is a raw talent that's left of center and possesses a unique style and perspective. What's most intriguing when first hearing Rome is that you know you've just been exposed to a unique artist with a very distinct sound and style that demands your attention. He's powered by raw emotion, fueled by passion, and driven by a clearly defined vision: to be rap music's next phenomenon. His trials and tribulations have at last found an outlet. For Rome, the focus is to create a body of work that is timeless and deliver that body of work with groundbreaking intentions. His music is equal parts raw, soulful, rebellious, and thought provoking. He has stressed that it is critical to create subject matter that clearly moves him first and foremost. "I am my worst critic," says Rome. It's got to feel right, down to every verse. "As for the creative process, I reach within myself and at times my thoughts can be universal, playful, surreal, raw, sexual, violent, or explicit in nature." One thing for sure, you will hear him loud and clear. "There's only room for heavyweights in the Rap Game. I clearly understand the concept." Believe me, Rome is pound for pound a true heavyweight.
