The Calling (1998) Supernatural started to work on track and songs in 1993. Peter and Thomas had known each other from playing, recording and touring with different projects in Europe over the years (amongst others 'Thomas Anders/Modern Talking, Kristiana Levy, Countdown, Foreign Affairs, Cafe Noir) and decided to work together on their own music. At the time, both were into creating sound scapes to visuals and ambient mood music. "The Calling" was mostly recorded in 'one take' sessions to capture the energy and spirit of the moment. Besides attempting to create more free structures and combining influences from different styles and tastes, the album caters to the film and advertising industry and to individuals who are into using music to emphasize the effect of the picture. Due to their busy schedules, it took a while before "The Calling" was complete (released October 1998), which quickly occupied ambient radio stations. The songs and sounds of 'The Calling' have been described as ambient, laid back mood music with an edge that leads you to places in your mind, heart and soul. Supernatural on myspace: myspace.com/17086301 'The Calling' has been re-released and will soon be available on i-Tunes and other download sites. Thank you!
