Soul/pop akin to the sounds of Babyface and Raphael Saddiq. 11 MP3 Songs POP: Today's Top 40, URBAN/R&B: Contemporary urban Details: * It's like Sunday afternoon at your favorite cafe... or like Thursday night at that swank little groove club downtown... * It's like a rainy day staring out your window... or like a cool evening drive as the stars are coming out... * It's that song you swear you must've heard before 'cuz you're already singin' along... but you know you just got it Tru Sol is a songwriting collaborative that's currently based in Houston and performs both as an R&B/jazz acoustic group and/or R&B-flavored rock band. The collaborative foundation is songwriter/vocalist, Jerry Richard, and songwriter/musician, Jose "Rio" Madrigal. Jerry Jose met in college and while performing together in an a cappella group, their common passion for original song writing led to collaborative efforts. Since that time, they've developed their sound and style into music that is simply seductive; familiar but fresh. Tru Sol's debut CD, "This Feeling", includes the singles "You're a Little Too Late," and "Baby Girl," which have received radio play on Houston radio stations, KMJQ Houston, KTSU Houston, and KPFT Houston. Nominated for Best Funk/Soul/R&B band in the 2003 Houston Press Music Awards, the group has been enjoying recent club and festival bookings throughout Southeast Texas and Louisiana.
