Titled Acoustic Sessions vol. 1, the album is an instrumental offering of 18 acoustic guitar songs, including 17 originals. "This album stems from a passion and love for the acoustic guitar. It's a beautiful instrument with a beautiful sound that can speak for itself, without words or other instruments." Josh says. Graber grew up in Newton, Kansas. It was there that he discovered his love of music when at five years of age he began studying classical piano. At age 18, while still studying piano, Josh picked up a guitar for the first time and began to teach himself. He refined his guitar skills while attending John Brown University in Siloam Spings, AR. Many of the songs on the album were composed there. One song, "Dundrum Bay," was written while visiting Northern Ireland. Graber recorded the album at the Contemporary Music Center on the island of Martha's Vineyard, MA. "I spent the fall of 2001 studying music at the CMC and the beauty of the island inspired many of songs on the album." Josh says. Graber recorded and produced the album himself. Currently residing in Bentonville, AR, Graber is on the staff of Fellowship Bible Church of N.W. Arkansas as one of their worship leaders. A versatile musician, he continually works with a variety of age groups from children to adults. Fellowship Bible Church has a weekend attendance of 6,000 - 8,000.
