What would your wildest dreams look and sound like if they were made manifest? 100 years into the future .. without a diabolical world war or a gloried messiah's return. What if humanity got it all together and technology actually led us into an evolved state of consciousness. Everything was all good and life was a never ending party. What would the music sound like? Perhaps syncopated melodies infused with high frequency metallic guitar riffs, alongside deeply soulful and energetic ambient compositions. But all hip-hop amplified to uncharted waters of sound. Here's the kicker it's not the future even though it sounds like it. It may be the time machine that scientists have been trying to create for hundreds of years, but took a musical genius to deliver this vehicle to us all. His name: Korise J a.k.a. Big Tunes. His vehicle: his album: Big Tunes Big Dreams A musical tapestry of genres ranging from soul to electronica to boom bap hip-hop. And not a weak attempt either, but rather a nostalgic blender of albums like Prince's Controversy and Outkast's Stankonia with sound's reminiscent of Massive Attack's Blue Flames and Sweetback. Nonetheless, Big Tunes Big Dreams is more than a musical masterpiece, it more than word's could describe, it's more quality music for your money. More albums should be made like this. People who are interested in Prince Timbaland Pharrell Williams should consider this download.
