BOX CARS (medium tempo/Americana-folk rock). This song is about a man searching for answers to questions about love and relationships and about how he tries to get far away from his troubles that follow him like a ghost. 2. FEET OF CLAY (bluesy, medium tempo, Americana/soul). This song deals with racial tensions and prejudice. It addresses how people often are afraid to take a stand for fear of being cast out of their community. 3. OKLAHOMA TWILIGHT (ballad, lilting folk rock). Written by Kevin Danzigs uncle Wayne Parker, this song is about a Cherokee woman in the 1800s who fell in love with a Civil War Army captain. 4. WE WON'T LIVE LIKE THIS (soulful, medium tempo/folk rock). This song relates the story of the early Cherokee people who were cast out and driven to the Oklahoma Territory in the 1800s, then forced by Christian missionaries to change their traditions or die. 5. THE PROMISED LAND (waltz, gospel). This song is about slaves known as the EXODUSTERS who were led by Benjamin Singleton (the black Moses) to Kansas after the Civil War ended in the late 1800s. 6. WHO'S LIVIN' IT UP NOW? (bawdy, soulful, and rock). The "ladies of the evening" were known as the "drover's delight in the town of Baxter Springs, KS during the late 1900s boomtown era in Kansas. Nelle Star was a famed madam, and this is her song. 7. PADUCAH (acoustic ballad). Written by Don Oja

Dunaway, this song is about a "free soldier's" migration with his little dog Paducah to the city of Lawrence, KS to escape the painful memory of a lost love. 8. THE OKLAHOMA MINER (bluegrass). Adapted from a 1921 poem written by a miner named Arman C. Lassiter, this song is a lively, educational introduction to the mining era in the Tri-State Region of Kansas/Oklahoma and Missouri that boomed in the early 1900s. 9. YOU CAN SEE FOREVER (soulful, medium tempo folk rock). In this song, two young boys make the best of their growing up years in an environmentally polluted town. The song discusses mountains of chat and chat piles residue from mining, and toxic streams the boys swim in, with water that is "orange on the bottom and foamy on the top, like a beer". The song also mentions one of the areas stellar landmarks, the majestic Coleman Theatre in Miami, OK. 10. TOBY (soulful acoustic ballad). Mules spent their entire lives hauling coal in the mines in the Tri-State area of Kansas/Oklahoma and Missouri. Mining came to a halt around the 1940s, and this song is about Toby, the last mule in the mines. 11. UNTIL THE SIRENS CALL (acoustic blues). Baxter Springs, KS had a reputation as a hideout for criminals during the early 1900s because of its safe location in Kansas just one mile from the Oklahoma border. This song is about Bonnie and Clyde Barrow and their gang when they holed up in Baxter Springs. 12. SPOOKLIGHT! (catchy, soulful rock) "Crazy Legs", Dean Walker and Kevin Danzig went looking for this mysterious phenomenon, but it did not show itself. Nevertheless, countless people over the years swear theyve seen this strange light in the Ozark Mountains of Missouri/Northwest Arkansas. Dean Walker was the inspiration for the character Mater in Disneys animated classic movie, Cars and lives in Riverton, KS. 13. ROUTE 66 (I didn't know this road went through Kansas) (country/bluegrass/Americana). This song is a hilarious, nostalgic dialogue between a father and his little girl as they cruise across America on historic Route 66. Most maps don't include the "13.2 miles of bliss -- the stretch of this Mother Road of America that meanders through Kansas.
