FOLK: Irish Traditional, FOLK: Traditional Folk Details: Fergal Scahill From Corofin, a small village in Co. Galway. Being one of the most talented musicians in the Irish music scene today, he is in great demand not only as a fiddle player but also as a guitar and bodhran player. He comes from a very musical family, his brother Enda being one of the top banjo players in the country. Fergal won the senior fiddle competition in the All Ireland Fleadh in 2002 which really boosted his career. He also has two All Ireland Bodhran titles to his name. Fergal has been playing music professionally since leaving school and has performed with some legends of Irish music including Frankie Gavin, Paul Brock, Kevin Crawford and has toured extensively with many successful young bands such as Teada, Rags, Celtic Legends and The David Munnelly Band. He also was a founding member of upcoming band MONTA who are signed to the Universal record label and is featured heavily on their debut album due for release later this year. Fergal has also recorded on many great albums over the last few years. He featured on the Brock McGuire Band Album which was awarded Instrumental Album of the Year 2005 from liveireland.com, and his very successful duet album with mouth organist Paul Moran featured in Earl Hitchner's Top Ten Albums of 2002. He also has featured as a guest artist on many other acclaimed albums over the past few years.

Ryan Molloy From Pomeroy in Co. Tyrone, Ryan began his musical life on the fiddle, taught by Brd Harper. The piano soon followed in his teenage years and it is in piano that Ryan now specialises. Described by the Irish Times as "...the funkiest piano this side of Dr John" and a "...secret weapon on rhythm" by the Irish Echo, Ryan has recorded on many critically acclaimed albums such as Humdinger, with noted musicians Paul Brock and Enda Scahill, and on By Heck as a member of the Dave Munnelly

Band. Currently teaching in Armagh, Ryan is also studying for his masters degree composition with Simon Mawhinney and Pier Hellawell at Queen's University, Belfast."
