A mix of genres as diverse as glam, lounge, acid jazz, and electronica that swaggers through the world's most beautiful city, Pop. 13 MP3 Songs POP: British Pop, ELECTRONIC: Pop Crossover Details: The self-titled debut by Washington, D.C. based Beau Tand set about writing and producing the complete album and succeeded; a collection of songs with love and culture as its lyrical playground and Pop music to connect the dots. The music offers seamless vocals reminiscent of David Bowie, Paul Weller, Scott Walker and Bryan Ferry. Even the cover art hints towards a forward-looking film noir. Tracks like, Ready for De Mille and May 1968 set a mood of glamour and wit and become picture perfect alongside the introspection of And All the Times and the blatantly romantic Pretty and Maybe It's Now/Villebrumier. Pop music is overrated for all the wrong reasons and under appreciated for all the wrong reasons, but Beau Tand's first CD gets the balance right.
