Atmospheric Pop with great melodies and piano based edgy rock. 11 MP3 Songs ROCK: Modern Rock, POP: Power Pop Details: "...have really got the hipster talents and ignorant wisdom to reverse time and make you appreciate alternative rock again for what it really was meant to be." - Stankygroove.com

"Mellow alternative rock with an indie feel to it.....Check these guys out as an alternative to the popular rock played on radio stations all across Boston, the change will be refreshing to say the least." - Boston Soundcheck Magazine "With superb songwriting and an equally fine delivery, Redletter could become one of Boston's finest musical commodities" - Metronome Magazine After performing recording under the name Redletter for 4 years, the band now known as The Break Mission have changed more than just their name. Recently signed to NYC start-up RoHo Records, the band releases their new album, produced by Dan McLoughlin (Push Stars, Buffalo Tom, Juliana Hatfield), in the Fall of 2005. The album features 11 new tracks of driving, atmospheric pop, and displays an evolution in the band's perspective and creativity. "RoHo Records is excited to be working with Redletter," states RoHo founder and President Bill Carey, "they are a tremendous find with a singular sound." Redletter have been forging new ground in the Boston pop scene since 2001, having played with acts such as The Push Stars, Glenn Tilbrook (of Squeeze), Duncan Sheik, and Loveless, just to name a few. The signing with RoHo comes on the heels of a very successful 2004 campaign during which they released the highly acclaimed EP "The Spirit and The Chemicals," competed in the 26th annual WBCN Rock n' Roll Rumble, and performed at both the CMJ and NEMO music festivals. "Their execution is flawless and punchy." (Z, The Noise) The hook-driven guitar lines and soft piano ballads draw comparisons to bands like Coldplay and Pete Dinklage, but it is easy to detect a distinctive sound or emotional outpouring that is inherently and unmistakably their own. The band is Matt Hershey (drums), Jeff Knowlton (guitar, piano, vocals), Dave Murray (guitar), and Richey Tally (bass), and after four years together, The Break Mission is currently enjoying its highest sense of live chemistry and willingness to reach larger audiences.
