While at Emerson, he spent semesters in Boston, Los Angeles, and The Netherlands. He co-directed and co-choreographed Richard O'Brien's The Rocky Horror Show, choreographed Donald Margulies The Loman Family Picnic, and directed Neil LaBute's A Gaggle of Saints. As a performer, Dante was featured in Children of Eden at the Majestic Theatre, Carrie: The Musical, and the children's play The Yellow Boat. He was also the Activities Coordinator of The Musical Theatre Society. Upon graduation, Dante conceived the new musical, City of Silence, which premiered at the Boston Center for the Arts for a three-week limited engagement. The operetta tells the tale of a family's struggles during WWII Nazi Germany. In January 2004, Dante had the opportunity to workshop a new modern dance piece on Long Island. Set to the music of Philip Glass, Passion told the story of Jesus Christ, but through the women of his life. At the Vital Theatre Company, Dante performed in the new musical The Changeling and choreographed The Falcon's Magic Feather. He wrote the book and lyrics to Extraordinary, which completed a two-month run February 6th, 2005. Shortly thereafter, it was produced at the Millbrook Playhouse in Pennsylvania and once again at The 2005 New York International Fringe Festival where it won Outstanding Music and Lyrics! Dante also wrote the book and lyrics to Radiant Ruby, a new family musical that was produced at the Vital Theatre Company in the Fall of 2005. As a performer, Dante is currently touring the United States and Canada in Disney's "High School Musical."
