JAZZ: Jazz Fusion, ROCK: Instrumental Rock Details: British guitarist Jon Beedle has been around for over three decades playing guitar around the world both in the studio and on stage. Jon has worked with keyboard player Don Airey and recorded with saxophonist Snake Davis whos contributions can be heard on Jons new album Long Time Coming. As well as recent appearances in the UK at The Birmingham National Indoor Arena, The Birmingham International Conference Centre, and The Australian High commision in London, Jon has performed in Reykjavik , Bucharest and Athens. Jon's plans for 2006 include a trip to Poland to record an orchestral piece for his next project, performances around the UK, Germany and Dubai and starting work on the next album as well as some session work on various projects for other artists. Jons new album Long Time Coming is a guitar instrumental album featuring Jons own compositions which reflect the many different musical influences that have shaped his style and sound. With a range of musical styles including rock, jazz, blues and even a little classical, together with a wealth of top session musicians including saxophone maestro Snake Davis, this album is a must for any serious guitar fan. Jon plays acoustic and electric guitars, guitar synthesizer and percussion, all with a flair and finesse that comes from over 30 years playing experience.
