Anarchist Folk Abstract. Neo-psychadelic rock that challenges all genres at once, mixing a distinctive type of heavier folk rock with a hint of almost electronic-style pop. 15 MP3 Songs FOLK: Folk Pop, ROCK: Folk Rock Details: Anarchist Folk Abstract Ours To Destroy's music is a unique juxtaposition of introspective folk with more aggressive experimental rock and melodic pop. The CD was professionally manufactured by Indiepool.ca and includes a 16 page staple booklet with original artwork by Natalie Marsh and Colin Whitney. The songs are bridged by sound montages captured during several guerilla recording sessions on the streets and in the malls of Calgary during 2005. Their sound is influenced by Modest Mouse, Eels, Wilco (from whom the band's name is derived), and the Flaming Lips. About the Players Ours to Destroy was formed in 2005 by Steve Dodd and David Morley. Dodd is the owner and brains behind The Sound Mind Studio (TheSoundMind.ca.) Dodd has an uncanny ability to listen to a 'song sketch' and hear the instrumentation, tones, and harmonies that were meant to be there. Damo penned the lyrics and song sketches you hear on the album and provides lead vocals, guitars, bass, drum programming, suitcase percussion, lyrics, and keyboards.
