Details: Iron Will (Brief Liner Notes) December 1, 2008 From 2006 to 2008 Warren began recording some of his rock songs and some of his country songs. He had planned on working mostly on his rock songs, but when Producer/Engineer Jeannine O'Neal mentioned that Steel Guitar Hall of Fame Bobby Black had moved into the area and was wanting to record some good country music, Warren completed his first country album Iron Will. This 8 song album features Bobby playing on four of the songs. It also features the famous singer Shellie Jacobs singing two songs and Rockabilly Hall of Fame singer Peter Hallock singing two songs. The song that really is special though is the last song which basically reunites the Lafayette, Indiana band that Warren first belonged to, the Storm band. With his brother singing backup with Warren, Warren convinced lead singer and song writer Steve Hill to sing lead on the western swing song My Heart Goes Out To You. Overall, as one would expect, for those who like classic country, rockabilly, and ballads, this album is a great addition to the music world. With so much talent available, all the songs are special in their own way. Iron Will has received many rave reviews on many independent music sites with the title song Iron Will leading the way with the accolades. Here are some examples of the reviews submitted on Garage Band: Iron will Good Ol' country song. A well balanced, well written and very well played song. Everything is very professional and polished.
