Related styles: FOLK: Folk-Rock, COUNTRY: Alt-Country Details: These are songs about the way things fall. The way we fall in and out of love. The way we fall apart. The way things fall into place. The way we fall short. The way we fall for a line. The way things fall to pieces. The way we all fall down. Two and a half years in the making, this unique mixture of acoustic folk and electric blues, digs down to the roots and turning leaves of Fall. The beautiful voice of Tiffany Carlson is your guide through this dusty landscape of heartaches, heartbreaks, longing, dirty deeds, and lost little girls. The winds whipping outside, but the fires warm in here. Oh, and buy two, its in stereo... Jim Walker - Producer Some reviews and a little more about Tiffany... She began a musical collaboration with singer/songwriter/producer, Jim Walker, who recorded and produced her first album, Long Way Back, in 2006. She has since been featured on The Back Porch Show, a nationally syndicated radio program, and KUPL FM radio. She was also featured on Christmas in the Northwest 10 in 2007, an album that benefits local children's hospitals. "This young lady grabs you with her lyrics and keeps you there with her sounda mixture of folk, country and blues. If this project is any indication of what we can expect from Ms. Carlson, the folks in Nashville had better sit up and take notice." - Alatheia Johnson, MoozikooStaff. Maverick magazine writes, "Tiffany proves herself to be not just a promising vocalist, but an intelligent and literate writer...A wonderful debut, hopefully not the last we hear from her." -LK Since the debut of Long Way Back, Tiffany has been playing in local venues and private shows. Most recently, she has teamed up with fellow singer/songwriter, Melanie Rae, to form the acoustic duo, CarlsonRae. With the completion of FALL, they are working on a CarlsonRae album for the coming year.
