Show all album songs: Ode To An Ex-wife Songs Details: "Big Harry" Johnson is a man who loves women, all women. After his most recent break up with his 8th wife Lulu Mae, Big (as his friends know him) retreated to his studio in rural Georgia to pour his heart and his years of experiences into some special music. He emerged a short nine weeks later, un-showered, un-shaved and unsure where he had left his truck, but with the emotion-filled album he calls Ode To An Ex-Wife. "The songs on Ode To An Ex-Wife are songs from my heart," says Big. "Each one tells a story and is a tribute to the women that I have loved so much, who have been so much a part of my life, who have made me the man that I am today." The poignant love songs on Ode To An Ex-Wife include: I Faked Mine, Too ("an attempt to get in touch with my feminine side"), I Hate Every Bone In Your Body But Mine ("I think the title says it all"), Is That A Pistol In Your Pocket, ("in my effort to find true love, I am once again confronted with the reality that things are not always as they seem") and the title track, Ode To An Ex-Wife ("my attempt to make sure that the women in my past know exactly how I feel about them, and this song leaves no doubt"). "Big Harry" Johnson: songwriter, singer, lover, man of great emotion, emotions that shine on Ode To An EX-Wife.
