Details: Hanna s voice has been described as "smooth sexy" by Mike Fleeman at People Magazine and "soulful lilting" by Michael Starr at the New York Post. Hanna writes and performs smokey songs about love and life, effortlessly using her deep sultry alto in music that blends soulful pop. Born into a family of classical musicians, Hanna began studying music at the age of three, and by the time she was 15, had traveled throughout Europe attending leading international music festivals with her family and immersing herself in diverse genres of music. Most recently Hanna collaborated with legendary music producer Jack Douglas, best known for his work on the mutli-platinum selling and Grammy award winning albums of John Lennon and Aerosmith. "Hanna has all the gifts and talent any producer would be thrilled to be creating with, but more important for me is that along with the beauty of her melodies, Hanna tells stories that contain her own truths. She writes and sings about what she knows without pretense," said Jack Douglas. Hanna was a recipient of an ASCAP Plus Award in 2003 and 2005. Currently, her music is getting airplay on XM Radio. Most recently Hanna decided to marry her love of music with her love of fashion and launched a premium rock n' roll clothing line called Lyric Culture (LyricCulture.com) inspired by the style and songs of legendary artists like The Beatles, David Bowie, Janis Joplin, Fleetwood Mac, Marvin Gaye, Lynyrd Skynyrd and many more. Lyric Culture honors these artists and their timeless words by fusing high fashion and music in a groundbreaking way, allowing the wearer to express themselves stylishly through the words of a classic song. "I'm approaching this line like a musician and lyricist. I've been given a tremendous opportunity and responsibility in bringing the words of the greatest songwriters to life visually. Each word is precious to me and I do everything in my power to do it justice," says HANNA. Tags: pop
