Details: "Juice Jive" is Robert Coleman Trussell's followup to "Texas Gothic," his 2005 release on Goodnight-Loving Records, which became a minor hit in Europe and pockets of North America. The new album is in the same roots-acoustic-insurgent country-alt.country-Americana-unplugged tradition of "Texas Gothic." In other words, more drunks, more loners, more outlaws, more unhinged men in love. "Juice Jive" features Trussell on guitar and harmonica, harmonies by Rachel Ries on three cuts and co-producer Kelly Werts on fiddle, mandolin, banjo and his trusty portable USO pump organ. Robert Coleman Trussell was born in Kingsville, Tex. and lives in Kansas City with his wife, Donna Trussell, a writer who co-wrote two of the songs on "Juice Jive."
