Singer/guitarist Ryan Gannon left his home in Venice, California for New York City several years before the formation of The Tuesday Suits. He met bass player Greg Krinsky, who had recently moved from Long Island, while the two were working in a downtown restaurant. In Gainesville, Florida, guitarist Ryan McNeil had been bouncing from band to band and touring the South for years. In March of 2001, he decided to try his luck in New York. The Tuesday Suits were officially formed in September of 2001 after Greg's brother Keith was asked to complete the lineup on drums. Two years later, The Tuesday Suits are a fixture of Manhattan's downtown club scene and have become an extremely powerful and exciting live act. With a catalogue of over sixty songs, their passionate live shows are always compelling and the set lists are never repeated. The Tuesday Suits recorded a self-titled EP in October of 2002 at Dubway Studios in Manhattan. Recorded completely live, the seven songs give a glimpse into what the band is capable of. It is available at several record stores in the city as well as through the band's website (TheTuesdaySuits.com) and through the online CD distributor CD Baby. (cdbaby.com.) In August of 2003, the band went into Fork Studios in Tribeca to record a four-song demo that showcases an even more focused and mature Tuesday Suits. Dynamic, passionate song writing, a distinctive twin guitar sound and powerful rhythm section combined with irresistibly catchy melodies make The Tuesday Suits a band that must be heard.
