Fusion-funk-jazz-folk-rock-pop with an activist's edge and a queer's insight. 11 MP3 Songs FOLK: Power-folk, BLUES: Funky Blues Details: Orenda was a family of musicians. Making their debut in Evansville, Indiana, Orenda was compiled of four individuals who shared a passion for making original music that sparked people to react. Tired of the hum-drum cover bands of E-ville, Orenda formed in despite of the lack of support for original music and made an enormous impact on the community that still resonates after their break-up. Orenda was Denise Dill (songs, guitar, and vocals), Nick Turpen (bass guitar and vocals), Victor Birkle (percussion), and Summer Roedel (vocals and percussion). Orenda was a collective of musicians working to inspire people with original thoughts. Recorded in Petersburg, IN by Brick Briscoe "Mediocrity" is a misleading title to a unique take on life growing up in rural southern Indiana.
