After a ten-year hiatus (raising kids, etc.), John returned to the musical field in the early 1990's and started Mimosa Music, a musical services company encompassing audio productions, instruction and performance. John has done a number of recorded compositions for AT&T corporate videos, and was contracted by the Martin Guitar Company to teach guitar to its employees as the in-house instructor. Currently John is continuing in the audio production field, writing scores for nationally broadcasted TV shows. He handles the majority of the instrumentation and recording himself. Additionally, John instructs guitar at the Eastern Conservatory of Music and Arts in Oldwick, NJ, as well as in his own Mt. Pleasant Guitar Studio in Mt. Pleasant, PA.
