An early influence in England was hearing a very young Elton John play piano at a house party in their neighborhood. With an avid love of music, this experience further fueled the desire to learn and play music. After studying classical and popular music with one of England's foremost broadcasting musicians, from musician to band leader, the passion for playing resulted in nights of entertaining and engagements that carried him throughout England, the Channel Islands, Wales, Germany, touring the world with P&O Cruise Lines and eventually ending up in Canada. Canada offered a new challenge and lifestyle. Tours included most of the major cities in Canada, finally settling down on the West Coast. Playing music was in his blood and composing seemed to come naturally. Starting in the mid-80's, bits of compositions started to form with the urge to compose music so strong that it evolved to the point of being the major focus for Sarsen. At present, Sarsen concentrates solely on composing, making his original compositions available on cd's. Composing music for the pleasure of sitting back to listen to a serene, relaxing tune, to more dramatic, formalized pieces used for corporate functions and conventions, to the more avant-garde pieces yet to come in Sarsen's new releases - captivating, amazing, unforgettable.
