Details: Ian Rushton is UK born New Zealander, a self taught pianist and guitarist. "All That You Need" is his debut release featuring a collection of melodic, piano-based instrumental works, recorded, programmed and mixed by the artist in his "bedroom studio" during 2002 and mastered by David Macquarie at Studios 301, Sydney Australia. "Rushton has developed a piano style that falls somewhere between Richard Clayderman and Pierre Wauters and is a tribute to self-taught keyboard players and DIYers everywhere" - Nick Batt, NZ Musician Dec/Jan 2004 Listeners Comments: "I love the melodies on this ... it's just beautiful" "I like the tunes...mellow and melodic" "Good melody and mood. Great stuff! My wife walked through and commented that she liked it too!" "I could listen to this around the house or just laying around and be melloooo. Keep up the good work!" "...nicely written and orchestrated...its a beautiful piece..." "I have your CD on again - it is truly beautiful.. I will tell my friends..." "Just want to let you know I'm really enjoying your CD. It is wonderful. I am so glad you had it made, and hope you sell zillions!"  New Album released December 2003  "Something To Live By" cdbaby.com/rushton2
