Details: Crey-Mey is a larger-than-life rapper who also happens to be a full-time web developer and video editor. Put him in front of a computer or a microphone and you never know what might happen! Born and raised in North West London, UK, Crey has always had music in his blood. He and his cousin Gary-G began writing lyrics in '92, and plucked up the courage to record a rap demo tape together in '96. Crey eventually ventured out as a solo rapper/producer and recorded 3 demo cd's between '98 and 2001. Music was only ever a hobby and he had no intention of making a career from it. After graduating from university, Crey decided to leave rap alone and focus on his web development career but as you can see, he couldn't stay away from music and the boy is back with his brand new mixtape "Oh So Mucky". His latest single "Bubblegum" reached no.4 in the Channel U music video chart, gained a nomination for Video Of The Year at the Channel U Best Of British Awards 2006, and enjoyed heavy rotation on Fizz TV.
