As a young boy growing up in the rural town of Leroy Texas, family and friends would take weekend horseback rides 10 or so miles to the DQ in Elm Mott where they would water the horses and grab a small snack before returning to the farm. Then they would take out the guitars and start picking and singing. It was there that Cutler got his beginning. He was hooked on music. Especially Daddys kind. Hank Sr, George Jones and Jimi Hendrix often made the play list in the 8 track player of his daddys 68 Gran Torino. Cutler was always singing along with the songs then began writing his own in Junior High. After graduating High School he went straight into the United States Marine Corps. During his tenure in the USMC his passion for music was growing. On weekends or off time you could find him sitting in with the local bands or picking with friends. After 5 years and receiving his Honorable discharge he formed his first band. The heavy metal outfit High Point Drive. Cutler wrote and sang all his original material. It was a great experience but it did not do the trick. In 1999 he moved to Florida after his Mom passed away in Texas. Her inspiration motivated Cutler to pursue his dream. So he got back to his roots and began playing his own home grown style of music. Southern Country Rock
