A folk-country sound with spiritual and ecological lyrics, called "Country and Eastern" by some. 13 MP3 Songs FOLK: Folk-Rock, SPIRITUAL: Mantras Details: Hi, my name is Dada Vedaprajinananda but you can just call me Dada Veda. I am teacher of yoga and meditation and a social worker as well as a singer-songwriter. I have been writing songs for the past five years and in my lyrics I blend spirituality, ecology and social justice themes. In 2003 I put out the first edition of the CD "Brighter Than the Sun." These songs were remastered in 2006 and are now available here on CD Baby. What are the songs like? They are simple acoustic-based songs. Some people say I sound like Bob Dylan. I don't think so, but I take that as a huge compliment. At a recent festival someone dubbed this music as "Country and Eastern." Here is what New Renaissance Magazine had to say about the CD: "From the opening title track Dada inspires us to look inside ourselves for answers. The simple peace of meditation and closeness to God is the central message. "He's right there inside of us, He's brighter than the sun," sings Dada in his cheery voice, like a favorite uncle." "All the songs are upbeat and happy. They speak of hope, light, unity and better times ahead. Cynicism and phony sophistication dominate our tense and complex times. Dada, through his simplicity and charm, cuts through all that. His songs give us a mental break, and return us to an age of innocence." "Dada's style is reminiscent of Pete Seeger or even Woody Guthrie. He is backed by acoustic guitars on all songs. On some of the up-tempo songs drum, bass and electric guitar give a folk-rock feel." The appeal of Dada's songs lie in the familiarity and immediacy of the melodies and the message. Most of the songs are easy to learn. The lyrics and guitar chords are available on Dada's web-site dadaveda.com."
