Details: In 2005 classical guitarist Keith Frazer was diagnosed as suffering from Focal Dystonia of the right hand, a debilitating neurological problem affecting the fine motor movements of the fingers. Unable to play and perform even the most simple pieces Keith set about re-learning some of his favourite Bach repertoire using a plectrum to override the disability. Slowly but surely a beautiful snapshot of Bachs Cello Suites took shape resulting in the CD Keith Frazer Plays Bach. Pre-Focal Dystonia Keith has recorded two other CDs, The Purest Form, a collection of original pieces, and Simply To Be a collection of well-known classics available from iTunes.
