Details: Marian Call is a composer and singer currently working and living in Anchorage, Alaska. She sings with a hint of classical training and a deep undercurrent of soul. Marian's compositions are half study calculation, half improvisational instinct. Her positive yet direct, honest lyrics appeal to people of discerning taste across all demographics. "Got to Fly," Marian's second CD release, is a singular work by commission for Quantum Mechanix and Black Market Beagles (quantummechanix.com). It's a special collection of songs for Marian's faithful following in the nerd and geek community. This project was done with the help of Browncoats and BSG fans in Alaska and around the country. It's for nerds of all stripes -- but most of the songs will appeal to all listeners. For more information, visit Marian's blog or official website.
