Classic + Jazz + Pop + Rock + Hip Hop + Funk + Electronica = Jin By Jin 11 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Funk, ELECTRONIC: Pop Crossover Details: Biography When Picasso began his cubist painting, not did he define that this expression was based on the cubism, but simply mentioned, I only have expressed what I was charmed with. Art is not imitation but creation. The fundamental reason why the masterpieces are wanted to understand and longed for is that to appreciate the intrinsic value within these works irrespective of the genres and, in this consequence, that to be set free from it. From the moment we were born to the point we finish our lives, who would not hold a little hope to pursue our ideals in the lives? For Love, Happiness, Hope or things we can not ever define. In the journey of our lives full of vicissitudes, we repeat a chain of events of the confrontation, collapse, cure, new challenge and maturity, and dream every moment. The ample inspiration of Jins music has been brought by this. As billions people in the world are living the completely different lives with different faces and perspectives, he wanted to appreciate the fact that anybody standing next to me now also would challenge him/herself, become insecure, be in agony and look forward to being understood. What is the genre of your music? Jin was asked. The definition of his music always has been the issues in finding his identity of art and life. Duke Ellington once said that a musician with a veritable style should be a part of a group of endowed artists referred to as category-free. Jin challenges himself to express his music in the versatility from classical, jazz, pop, funk, rock, hip-hop to electronic as he truly believes Music speaks itself. Jin hopes therefore his music is beyond the space-time, race, religion, age and all the possibilities. With its unique and eclectic sound, Jin endeavors to represent the genuine originality and deliver the deep emotion to the world.
