Hailing from Detroit, MI, she began actively performing in the Missouri area last year, making notable performances at PRIDE 2005, National Coming Out Day, and gaining recognition through her appearance on the film soundtrack for The Myth of Color. Her anticipated full-length CD, "To Her (The Bittersweet)" will be released in March of this year, following the overwhelming response to her Preview EP of 2005. Julie's odd upbringing gave her a unique view of the world, a view that is visible in both her lyrics and her musical style. She is not afraid to make fun of herself while on stage, and has an unusually strong connection with her audiences. She is real, and that keeps her loyal audiences coming back for more, time and again. Julie is currently writing music and working on putting together a small tour of the Midwest.
