With records like Hip-Hop Songs 4 Worship and My Life My City My Block, he has learned how to fuse the word of God with several different cultures and races of people throughout the world. His new record titled State Of Mind is a totally different approach than you've seen in any of his other efforts. It's ministry to the world that does not exclude the church, it's hip-hop today, R&B tomorrow, its jazz in the morning, but rock at night. It's a melting pot of creativity along with lyrical content for a plethora of subject matters, all of which are based on biblical teachings in a modernized non-traditional environment. This two-year long recording process hailed 27 original tracks, 14 of which were actually included on this release of the CD. Some of the other songs you will hear on State of Mind (Street Version) set to be released by spring of 2005. The concept of State of Mind is simple, "A little something for everyone!" Whether you're a seasoned Christian or a non-believer, whether you're a traditional Christian or a radical one there is something for you to grab on to in this record. This record's undertones are those of achieving goals in your personal life and your spiritual walk. It's teachings range from finding your purpose to ministering through your lifestyle. There are also very strong messages to men about respecting women. Along with songs like "Strong Woman" which have to do with women making it through, even when situations get seemingly unbearable. Riff-Raff will follow up this record in mid march with his book titled Behind Closed Doors and then the release of State of Mind (street version), which will include tracks directly geared towards ministry to the unsaved. State of Mind is one of the most unique gospel rap records that you will ever hear, and Riff-Raff continues to pioneer originality for this genre of music.
