Details: Amy Weber Bio Beautiful actress and cover model Amy Weber has shown tremendous versatility in her many on-screen roles, which come from her years of hard work, study of her craft, and natural talent. Amys easygoing nature and toned physique have led to a number of television roles- including the now-famous character of Porcelain Bidet on the hit FX series, Son of the Beach. Since her recurring role on the ABC soap Port Charles which helped launch her acting career, she has gone on to appear on hit shows such as CSI, Seventh Heaven, and Pacific Blue as well as Andy Richter Controls the Universe and The Tonight Show with Jay Leno. Amy also was hand picked to star on the very popular WWE show Smackdown on UPN. Amy has also acted in a number of films- including appearances in films with Dylan McDermott, David Spade, Sean Penn, Whoopie Goldberg, Pauly Shore, Adam Corolla and Freddie Prince Jr. Through her company, Amy Weber Productions, she produced and starred in The Strangers, a travel show Spa Adventures and In Da Cutz, an Entertainment Wrap up show that she hosted as well. Amy also served as Associate Producer on The Pumpkin Carver in which she stars as well as Co-Producer of the Foreign Film, Whats the Meaning of Love. Amy has been seen as the host of a number of popular projects, including an exciting reality-based Adventure show called Getaway for UPN, and the USA Network series called Tens, a variety show centered around the beach. Amy recently finished starring in her first Mockumentary, a Spinal Tap for our generation and she is recently completed her first book, a How to about the Entertainment Industry. She has also been in the recording studio to work on her first single. Amy was born in Peoria, Illinois and was raised in a small town right outside of Peoria called Mapleton. Her family relocated to Ocala, Florida just before her freshman year and in High School she was a varsity track and cross-country athlete as well as a member of her debate team and cheerleading squad. She was also an active member of the student body. Amy has always loved the outdoors. She raced motorcycles as a child and spent many hours with animals of all shapes and sizes. I have always brought home stray animals- everything from squirrels to wild rabbits to foxes and turtles, she says I thought I could save them all! After attending a year of college as a psychology major at the University of Central Florida in Orlando, Amy grew restless and decided to quit school to move to Los Angeles, and become an actress. Discovered shortly after she arrived in Southern California, Amys ability as a model immediately landed her numerous print ads and television commercials including work for the Miller Brewing Company. Wrigleys and Nestea. While her career as a model and host remains in full swing, Amys passion is acting. At the same time she enjoys Producing as well as writing. Be sure to keep an eye on Amy Her star is on the rise!
