Details: Judith White is a performer, composer, scholar and music educator who began her organ/piano studies at the age of five. Her classically trained teachers include Istvan Nadas (student of Bela Bartok), Alan Naude (student of Nadia Boulanger), Dr. Loeffler (student of Hindemith), Harold Vogel and various workshops with top performers such as Gustav Leonhardt. Professional achievements include an M.A. in Music Education, three years of research in doctoral work at the University of Washington and over twenty years of teaching, performing, and composing for private projects. My music has evolved through living and breathing two questions throughout my life: who we really are and why we are here on earth. We are awareness, coming into the raw joy of life and the delight we feel as babies. Each song reflects different evolving phases and aspects of our lives.
