"When you're in dire need for something real" The soul and funk-inspired rhythms, breathtakingly mournful cello arrangements and painfully honest lyrics are a true break from the norm - a challenge from Love Syndicate to music itself to embrace passion in every note, in every verse.. For guitarist, lead singer and poet Josh Komorowski, writing and performing music was not as much a choice as it is his destiny. Love Syndicate's signature sound is the only way to hear the music that plays in the mind of Komorowski; whether solo, duo, quartet or legion of players, Love Syndicate performs what Komorowski dreams. Komorowski's voice, verse, composition, and passion lead Love Syndicate's challenge to music. The intertwining of his heartbreaking, raw lyrics and the haunting cello from Erin Ryan never fails to captivate the hearts of the audience. Ryan's groundbreaking style, based on years of classical training and a gleeful willingness to break all the rules, has made her one of the most sought after studio musicians in Philadelphia. Her latest work on G Love and the Special Sauce should be released in early 2003. Love Syndicate has just released their first independent Studio Album, "Songs of Innocence and Experience". Recorded at Studio 4, Mixed and Mastered by the legendary Producer Phil Nicolo (John Lennon, Santana), "Songs of Innocence and Experience" is the first glimpse of a multitude of upcoming studio projects for Love Syndicate. Album Description: "Etched into the fluid ocean of music, "Songs of Innocence and Experience" somberly floats its audience through the passion created in each note. One is drawn into its waters by the sheer warmth and sincerity of the music. Be it wading through the pools of poetic melodies or sailing the waves of their honest emotion, these songs of innocence and experience become an album of its time but timeless in its nature."
