Details: A Greensboro, NC native, Sam Hensley started performing in 1993 with his acoustic duet, The Hopeless Romantics. In 1994, as a solo artist, he took first place in the Triad Song Slam a record three times. In 1999, he released his first solo album, Beg the Sky, featuring the song So Right, an honorable mention at the Georgia Music Industry Assoc. songwriting contest. Sam now maintains a full-time writing and touring schedule, going between Episcopal Youth Conferences, and secular clubs and festivals. He has recently made appearances at the Eno River Festival, Durham, NC; City Stage, Greensboro, NC; and the National Cathedral, Washington, DC. Produced by Greensboro's Rob Seals, who also plays multiple instruments on the record, Run Like Water showcases intimate and thought-provoking lyrics on a backdrop of solid, acoustically based grooves. Featuring Derek Jones (Nickel Creek), Dale Baker (Sixpence none the Richer), Eddie Walker and Ray Laughran(Evan Olson), and Greensboro songstress Claire Holley, the ten songs wind through the genres of folk and Americana, with a subtle touch of pop rock. The tunes create a path through the realm of human emotion, exploring the common realities that hold us down, and lift us up. From the song Broken, a desperate crying out for healing, to the love and reconciliation of family in Prodigal Son, the range of emotion and sentiment is wide, creating a musical journey that Chris Roulhac of WQFS-FM in Greensboro calls inspiring and beautiful.
