The following five paragraphs are for any record executives that may be interested. After that, it's the real deal for any one who cares to read it: SYRACUSE, N.Y. - Two central New York men have recently released their new album Thee Asylum. First in a series of new and original music, the group WTP has created a dark yet inspirational album that reveals the many evils of man. The members of this Hip-Hop duo, Johnny Dead and Stabb, have carefully crafted a unique and powerful music intensive persona. Dead and Stabb have collaborated their personal and controversial lifestyles as Irish travelers and together they portray a chaos that is taking the central New York music audience by storm. WTP has been featured in the Syracuse New Times, an alternative periodical that boast over 200,000 readers, and also in the Syracuse Post Standard, where their album received a three out of four star rating. WTP has been played on K-Rock, the #1 radio station targeting 18-27 year old males. The group has also gained acceptance with local college radio stations through interviews and consistent requested air play. Powerful and no stranger to the stage, WTP has new fans pledging their allegiance after each Show. With innovative grass-roots marketing, WTP has created an aggressive demand for their stage presence, CD's, and T-shirt orgies. Two people. Their beats and their lyrics. Life as seen through the eyes of the unordinary. For pictures, music, and more information on WTP, please visit the Web site wtpasylum.net. Alright, that's it. That was our press package. The problem is, there's a couple of things missing. It doesn't tell you how much we have busted

our asses to get this far, and how me and Stabb learned the hard way about everything. It doesn't tell you why tracks 19, 20, 21, and 22 are blank (you're gonna have to go to the web site for that one). It doesn't say anywhere how we are Juggalo's till death do us part. This album was thrown together quicker than make and it's awesome. I know this because all of the emails I have gotten from you guys. Keep giving us feedback, we FEED off it. Were like the killa's in tha' night. If you think I suck than tell me I suck. Fill out a review and tell the world. I don't give a fuck, I'm our worse critic. For all the JUGGALO'S, you might want to know that Stabb actually got on stage with ICP at the Wraiths record release party in Boston as one of the four horsemen. I couldn't believe it. He rapped his verse in Black Gold, and then him, J, and Shaggy all did Tilt-a-World. I was floored. So check this out. As I write this, this CD is selling for $12.97. I didn't know till after the fact that it actually cost you almost twenty bucks to buy it after all the bullmake shipping and taxes. Its not CD baby's fault but over here in Syracuse, Oneida, and Utica, we've been selling the make for TEN bucks. No tax and make, just a flat ten. Today is Thursday, April 15, and it is 5:15 on the nose, make, 5:16, anyway I'm going to start selling the "Thee Asylum" for whatever the difference is, so that you will only pay ten bucks, just like everyone else over here. For all of those who have already bought it for the other price, email me and I will send you difference. If I don't, write in the review box and tell everyone that were liars. So, if you are still reading this for some strange reason instead of listening to the album, then download "The Storm is Coming" first. That is the last thing we wrote before we began the sequel, "The STORM". Take cover Juggalo's, something' wicked is coming....
