Gawad Kalinga is a revolutionary social development movement which has been transforming communities in the third world since 2003. Created in the Philippines, its name is a Tagalog phrase which means give care. This holistic program includes five sub-programs: shelter, health, education, livelihood, and community development. The work of the foundation revolves around its bold vision of GK 777: 700,000 homes in 7,000 communities in 7 years. On its second year of the 7-year vision, it has built over 11,000 homes in 447 communities. It has also restored peace between Christians and Muslims in the Southern parts of the Philippines and has established committed partnerships with many areas of society in the Philippines, including the government, non-government associations, national media, multi-national corporations, and the United Nations.
