Here we make a means to come to a conclusion peacefully and happily. I dont remember the details and I probably shouldnt tell any one those matters. But, the fact of the matter is that the retro car has reached heights of un imaginable proportions. FACT. One day I was minding my own business and I received the call from a German Car Manufacturer. To my astonishment it was the V Dub! I like Volkswagen a lot. I enjoyed their cars for a very long time and it seems to me that it was sad that they didnt make them any more. Its easy to say that I have a hand in it, but I actually did receive the call to ask the question of any new ideas for a car Chris? it happened I promise. The chances of any one believing me now are slim to none but the chances of me then saying this is my car was in it self untrue. All I said was update the formula. That is the point of making money day after day. People like new things. Also the chances of selling a car that the inventor of the CD helped design was also sketchy. Who is to say when and where the given time to come out and admit that I had a phone call and a plan made? The final conclusion is that Im bragging again. Sorry but it seems to me that Im going to have to share this in order to stress that Im in-fact a good person of judgment. Your reaction is not what Im trying to foresee here but the point is to grant myself a chance at your attention. Thank you and I with some modesty that this in tales hope that you trust my intuition and that the VW increases in satisfaction!
