If "Americana" is a style, then that's what this is--elegiac lyricism coupled with acoustic instrumentation and a little bit of old-fashioned Memphis rock and roll. 12 MP3 Songs FOLK: Gentle, COUNTRY: Country Rock Details: More elaborate bio pending. For now, settle for this: David Weatherman grew up in Batesville, AR. Then he moved to Memphis and bought a guitar. Now, he writes songs and sings them for people and is proud to be a part of the Retriever Records family. This here webpage has been created to promote the sale of his new recording. Rather than title it, he just wrote his name on the front. Hopefully that's okay with y'all. If you like soft slow sad folk songs and upbeat rockin country songs, you will like this album. If you like whiskey, you will like this album. If you like this album, you should buy it. I don't know who David sounds like. I've heard him compared to everyone from Randy Travis to Evan Dando. Anyway, after you get this record, listen to the first couple of tracks while driving around in your car. Then, go home, pour yourself a drink, turn off your lights, and listen to the rest. Send him an email telling him who you think he sounds like, so as he can rest easy in the comfort of appropriate comparison. Thank you.
