Acoustic Americana/contemporary folk music from the heart and soul. 11 MP3 Songs FOLK: Modern Folk, FOLK: Alternative Folk Details: Greg Zieseemer is an accomplished musician and 20+ year veteran of the central Indiana music community. A talented singer/songwriter, Greg demonstrates a unique sensibility and perspective in his original compositions, reflecting on relationships, social awareness and self-discovery, and celebrating the trials and triumphs of that unlikely hero of the American experience, the underdog. Kriss Lockett has been active in music for over 20 years in Indiana as well, performing as a vocalist in a wide variety of projects. She has proven herself to be a prolific songwriter and a talented vocalist, both of which give her a deeply expressive and individual style. Her songs come from deep within to explore a wide range of emotions and the broad spectrum of human experience, and her velvety vocal style invokes a sense of heart, passion and truthfulness. A live performance by Greg and Kriss brings together a wealth of sensations and dynamics. In the course of an evening they move fluidly through their catalog of original songs, and occasionally dust off a classic cover, rendering a new shine to a seldom-heard gem of a song. Their voices and guitars blend beautifully to express genuine emotion and deliver each song in their unique fashion. Their lyrics and harmonies intermingle to draw the listener in for an intimate musical experience. Their brand-new dual CD releases, "Bare Bones" and "Virginia", demonstrate the depth and quality of their songwriting, as "Bare Bones" is just that, the acoustic duo stripped down, just two guitars and two beautifully harmonious voices. "Virginia", on the other hand, takes the basic tracks of "Bare Bones" to new heights, with adornments of dobro, mandolin, banjo, and even cello, violin and percussion. Each collection stands on its own, two unique versions of the same songs.
