Stan is renowned for his high quality studio albums. 12 MP3 Songs FOLK: Modern Folk, FOLK: Contemporary Celtic Details: This is Stan's long awaited third studio album and has been acclaimed as his best yet. Superbly produced by Stevie Lawrence with Ian Anderson on Fiddle, Wendy Weatherby on Cello, Iain Lowthian on Accordion, Frazier Speirs on Harmonica, Tommy Roseburgh on Keyboards and the multi-instrumental skills of Stevie Lawrence, this really is an outstanding collection of songs, sensitively arranged and not musical corrupted, that you will listen to time and time again. As you would expect from a writer of this quality, it contains a number of what are sure to be future classics. The monumental traditional sounds of Whitby Harbour, which is already being played and covered by some of the top musicians in the country, the resounding story line and sadness of All The Young Soldiers, the stunning musical arrangement of the more politically motivated Rolling River Farm, written with Mike Silver, the stunning classic lyrics of Songs For The Lonely and the moving sentiments of Christmas Soldier and Michael And His Medals. Add to this the upbeat rhythms of Somewhere In America and Easy Street and you have an album which contains something for everyone and will not disappoint the listener. This is a varied and thoughtful selection of songs from a writer who combines great vocals with sensitive and well crafted lyrics. Superbly supported by some of the best musicians in Scotland, this is an exceptional album by any standard and has that rarest of commodities found on CDs these days, value for money in every track.
