Intricate melodies from her gospel, classical and new age roots, weave in subtle crescendos throughout the 13 songs on her debut album, cradling, carrying you to another time, a calmer time of marigold fields, careful reflections and a world with nothing but peace. Her songs are of love, struggle, hope, faith and releasing that which holds you prisoner. Cathie D., knows all these things first hand, having been put up for adoption as an infant, and discovering at a young age she had Retinitis Pigmentosa coupled with Ushers Syndrome; a blend of diseases robbing her of perfect vision and clear hearing. Though facing tough odds, with vision and hearing impairments, Cathie's family embraced her musical interests launching her creative appetite. She flourished by writing, composing her first songs, learning piano, violin and guitar before her 14th birthday, all without anyone really knowing or being able to detect a hearing loss. Cathie D.'s fortitude is an inspiration to all who know her, and relish in the lyrics, rhythms and performance, of a specialized blend of notes, birthed only by passion, strife and a yearning to be heard, seen and understood. Soulful, and hypnotic layers keenly arranged, provide such sweet candy for the cochlea. Her music is as if she has reached into your soul to pull what makes you dream, yearn, and be. Church, community and conference performances always leave Cathie's fan base yearning to hear more, and her work with the "Divine Goddess Network LLC" allows her to teach others how to heal their spirits, souls through music, and empower women creatively. Even as a teacher of music, Cathie imparts her students with the importance of expression, boosting self confidence, and being happy in the skin you're in no matter what else may come. An artist like Cathie D., comes along like Haley Comet, once in a lifetime. People who are interested in Enya Yanni should consider this download.
