Details: Grant Davis possesses a powerful, confident, edgy, contemporary, country vocal style. Grant can rock with the best of the country, southern rockers only to draw you in a new direction with a vulnerable love song. Furthermore, Grant delivers his material with passion, precision, honesty, attitude and conviction. In this first album, "No Caution," Grant delivers us a variety of styles that all seem to come together as one. From good rocking modern day country like "No More U in Us" to a Nascar tribute theme song, "No Caution" to a brand new genre he likes to call Countribbean (con-TRIB-bean) in the song "Count on Me" with Caribbean star, Khamelien to a classic falling in love song, "I Fell for That." Grant's "No Caution" has opened the crossover country world to a brand new height. Grant was born in Marietta, Georgia on March 24, 1977. After only a few months old, his family packed up and moved to Phoenix, Arizona where his father, Billy Davis was a pastor at the local church. Later, Billy would become state senator for two terms. At age ten, the family moved to Kennesaw, Georgia where they stayed. Grant has spent his life in entertainment from award-winning stage actor to musician to writer. With the help and support of his producer/engineer Joe Smith (who produced or engineered 'NSYNC, Backstreet Boys, She-Daisy, Khamelien, and many more) Grant created this knock out album. He has been visiting the Bahamas all his life and frequents Rum Cay Island the most hence his label's name.
