A diverse sound with elements of electronic, neoclassical, folk and experimental. 15 MP3 Songs EASY LISTENING: Love Songs, ELECTRONIC: Experimental Details: Japanese Barbie is from Tucson, Arizona. The lads, and lady, of the band, blend together a wide variety of genres, including: classical, jazz, 80s synth pop, and geek rock, creating a style that is particularly their own. Erin Barnes, contributing writer for Hyperactive music magazine says about the band: Japanese Barbies classical training, intellectual influences, and youthful energy produce piano-driven rock that is quirky and charming. The original lineup for Japanese Barbie consisted of Noah Harkey on keyboard and vocals, Travis Michalak on Guitar, and John Knott on drums. During this period the band wrote a plethora of music and recorded a full length CD: Live in Tokyo. The group also won the Arizona Daily Star Battle of the Bands. Former drummer John Knott had other plans besides the band. He decided to attend Cal Arts for music production. John was replaced by Vincent Salcido, the bands current drummer. Vincents first appearance was a live broadcast on KXCI local radio with Don Jennings. Japanese gave an interview and played a music set, and the latter was turned into the bands second album. The group matured in songwriting ability and technicality. The talent of violinist Emma Harkey was also spotted and added to the lineup. She has become an integral part of the bands sound. Recently, Japanese Barbie has recorded a full length CD, produced by John Knott with art by Keegan Rider. The CD is titled Poka Dotted Zebra Stripes. The band feels most prideful of this album above the others and is very excited about the release on March 30th, 2007. Japanese Barbie has always been an extremely experimental group. Since our first real appearance in 2004, J. Barbie has changed soo much! With the help of Adam Carlisle, Charles Weaver, John Knott, Noah Harkey, Travis Michalak, Vincent Salcido, Emma Harkey, Keegan Rider, and many other friends and fans, Japanese has become what it is today. Thank you so much for your support and let us know if you ever need anything. Much love to you! N OAH H arkey - voice keyboard. V INCENT S alcido - drums voice. T RAVIS M ichalak - guitar voice. E MMA H arkey - violin voice.
