For those of a reflective disposition, balm for the soul comes bubble-wrapped in this collection of Latin plainchant. Individually immaculate, levitating atop gloriously medieval arrangements as an exaltation of prayer and equally as an art form. 24 MP3 Songs WORLD: Celtic, WORLD: Western European Details: Canticle of the Sun by Schola Cantorum Dublin Schola Cantorum Dublin explores the simplicity and integrity of Latin plainchant, both as an exaltation of prayer and equally as an art form. The Schola is a blend of male voices in unison to create a sanctuary for reflection and communion. In addition, Canticle of the Sun celebrates exquisite hymns educed from the Gaelic language. This Schola is the only secular plainchant choir in Ireland. For those of a reflective disposition, balm for the soul comes bubble-wrapped in this collection of plainchant. Individually immaculate, levitating atop gloriously medieval arrangements. Curiously appealing, albeit in bite-sized excerpts. The Irish Times
