The immediacy of the songs will have you grinning from ear to ear, and each play will reveal another subtle layer, another nuance. Bipolar Diversions is set to be one of the classic albums in any music collection. Based in London, Jackdaw4 is the brainchild of Willie Dowling, the chief singer, songwriter and producer of Bipolar Diversions, who has drawn from a bank of musical influences to create some unique and extraordinary songs, laced with acute observations and character portraits. Dowling is well known as a composer for both TV and film, writing music for such comedy luminaries as Steve Coogan (Dr Terribles House of Horror), Rob Bryden and Julia Davis (Human Remains) and Armstrong Miller to name just a few. On stage, as on record, Dowling is accompanied by, John Steel, Guy James, Andy Lewis and Andy Robertson, whose wealth of musical experience and ability ensures Jackdaw4 delivers astonishing live performances. Jackdaw4 toured extensively across the UK following the release of their first album, Gramophone Logic. In November, 2007 the band played a sold out gig at the Soho Revue Bar in London. A full UK tour is planned for 2008.
