It has become a Mecca for traditional, old-time bluegrass music. Inspired by a rich family tradition, Kat Graham, a native of Floyd, has produced and released a new CD titled "Pictures of You. Kat moved to Nashville by way of Houston, Texas in 1984, and has since had the honor of working with an amazing array of successful writers and performers. Those who co-wrote songs that are featured on Pictures of You include: * Don Schlitz, famous for "The Gambler" , "Forever and Ever Amen" and "I Feel Lucky." * Janis Ian, Grammy-award-winning artist well-known for her hit "At Seventeen." * Marc Rossi, who wrote "Could've Heard A Heartbreak" recorded by Ronnie Milsap. * Elizabeth Hill, successful Mohawk Canadian songwriter. * Janey Street, former Arista, Capital and Warner/Reprise recording artist/songwriter/producer. The title track was written by friend and featured acoustic guitar player Roy DeSha. The last song on the album called Steppin Stones was written with publisher/songwriter J. Francis Keaus and recorded by Lorrie Morgan as a cut on her Greater Need album, which featured Vince Gill and Travis Tritt. Kat and Roy recorded Pictures of You with accomplished musicians such as Robin Ruddy, now touring with Rod Stuart; Deanie Richardson, former Patty Loveless fiddle player currently on the road with Vince Gill; legendary pedal steel player Bobbe Seymour, who has worked with everyone from Elvis to Wynonna Judd; long time friend and bass player Susan Charnley currently working with Wall of Jules and Two Chix a Drum. Old family photos of Graham and DeSha family members are dispersed throughout the CD package, including an early 1900s photo of the Dodd Creek Mill, which still stands on Route 8 on the outskirts Floyd.
