Memorable, instantly grabbing, persistently tugging, emotionally revealing female folk pop. If you like Shawn Colvin, you will love this artist. 10 MP3 Songs FOLK: Folk Pop, ROCK: Acoustic Details: Rebecca Scott has been performing her unique brand of folk-rock in the Northwest for over ten years. She's recorded three all original albums. The first album, "Wave To The Elephants", received national attention when its first cut, "Diggin' a Path", was used in an MTV movie soundtrack "The Anatomy Of A Hate Crime: The Matthew Sheppard Story". Her second album, "United", was acclaimed when Billboard Magazine named her one in six of the country's top unsigned bands of 1999. While writing the music for her third and most current release "The Game" (2002; self produced with Ben Burdick at Little House Recordings), Rebecca has had the opportunity to perform with Jonatha Brooke, Shawn Colvin, and with various artists at Lilith Fair and other NW music festivals. She performs with her four piece band, which includes lead guitarist Ben Burdick, backup vocalist/percussionist Debbie Sager and percussionist Greg Belzeski. The band recently shared billing with Dishwalla and Shelby Lynne. Rebecca is also half an acoustic-and-voice duo with Ben.
