And this world at the same time reveals the inner world of your mind. What images will you see in this world? It depends on the state of your mind. And you can plunge deeply into the depths of your own being with the unusual and unpredictable music of Field Effect. It can also be characterized as moving music. It is very expressive and liquid and can be as acute as the human mind. Field Effects electronic soundscapes remind me Richard Bones music to a certain extent. They both explore various fields of human consciousness. Matt Shire-Jones deeply affecting keyboards and Tony Gordons soothing saxophone interweaves in the unified music of the present. This is music of the modern world and modern life. Just listen to Field Effect to be in the present moment. Serge Kozlovsky
