Producer/composer Jeff Olmsted is the founder and president of InspoPop.Ltd, a record company dedicated to the creation and promotion of "inspirational pop"-music in a pop style with a sacred function: to praise God, to express unity, to make joyful noise. In 1993, Jeff founded the Interfaith Choir, which grew out of the New York City's Interfaith Fellowship. Over the next eight years, the Choir developed a large repertoire of inspirational and devotional music from many different religious and spiritual traditions, and performed at the Open Center, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, St. Peter's Church at CitiCorp, the World Trade Center and Town Hall, in addition to weekly performances at worship services. The Choir also developed original material by Jeff and other choir members, including Frank Coppola and Mindy Rosengarten, Laura Warfield, and Kim Lesley. Some of this work is represented on the CD's STEP INTO THE LIGHT and KEEP HOPE ALIVE. The National Endowment for the Arts funded the development of THE EARTH AND ME, an ecologically-themed oratorio for puppets and dancers, which he composed with Sandra Robbins for the award-winning Shadow Box Theatre. Jeff created the popular CHORUS IN MIRACLES tapes, chants based on lessons from the Course In Miracles Workbook. InspoPop plans a CD re-release for 2002. With his wife Julie, he wrote and performed JEFF JEWEL'S NEW AGE BLUES REVUE, a songs and comedy cabaret show nominated for seven MAC awards by the Manhattan Association of Cabarets, and performed in seven states during the eighties. Jeff and Julie live in Rockland County, New York with their children, Wiley and Grace.
